

THE SOMMELIER'S HOOK

Welcome to Fishbank Bar & Grill's world of wine. In these pages, there's a wine to suit everyone. Working closely with our kitchen team, we have created a list inspired by our incredible local producers, friends and makers across the globe. Our wine list channels the Fishbank philosophy of never taking life too seriously! If you're a traditionalist and prefer a crisp Riesling with your seafood, so be it. But if you're happy to be extended to a Grand Cru White Burgundy or red wine of lustre and depth, let's chat about that too.

As you flick through, keep your eyes peeled for the Sommelier's Hook, where we showcase some uber classics and some lesser-known varietals, right through to the down right kooky.

Happy drinking.

FISHBANK CHAMPAGNE FLIGHT

50

Three of our all time favourite fizzes lined up. This is a transformative flight showing off the complexity and dynamism of one of man's most serendipitous sagas: Champagne. A classic and endearing NV from the fourth oldest Grandes Marques in the world, Taittinger (1734) is the first entry here. Champagne Devaux (1846) is our middle ground combining long ageing and abundant freshness. Ayala (1860), known for their Blanc de Blancs marks our journey's end with their take on the superb 2016 vintage. Sip, sip again and enjoy. All are available as a full glass pour.

Honey Moon Vineyard was established in 2004 in Echunga, set deep within the Adelaide Hills. This sparkling rosé is hand disgorged for FISHBANK weekly to ensure the wines are kept fresh and in their prime. On the nose, strawberries and cream, quince and fresh baked pastry, which translates to a palate of lemon sherbet, macadamia and hibiscus. Exquisite and delicate - and from our very own back yard.

What could I be? With the texture of Wonka Nerds on the palate, a sherbet zing, delicate bouquets of field flowers and a long drawn out finish this one is crazy for seafood. There's a slight chalky and mineral edge that does give a sense of place, so, despite its deliciousness, sip slow and ponder.

2023	Levantine Hill 'Levant'	Yarra Valley, VIC	17
2022	Domaine Tempier	Provence, France	37

The best Rosé on the planet. Old vine Mourvedre, Grenache and Cinsault are the stars of the blend here, bringing structure, fruit and an oh-so-recognisable vibrant salmon colour. Complex and balanced, Tempier brings us fresh cut peaches, ruby grapefruit, pomegranate all held tightly together with a lacey acidity. Domaine Tempier has been at the helm of Bandol wine production for almost 200 years.

COST PRICE RESERVE

150ml

The following glasses are borne of our insatiable need to share the luxury mystique of rare and allocated wines with as many people as possible. Fishbank Bar & Grill has spent over three years building our cellar and connections in the wine industry which now gives us the ability to, on occasion, open some of the fruits of our labour to share. Enjoy these, both of which are seldom available by the glass, at the cost of what we paid. Cellared with care and opened with zeal.

WHAT TO DRINK AFTER

Dessert wines always present an issue when dining out. Unless you're weak of will, like us, then it is simply impossible to drink everything you want over the course of a meal. We often read wine lists backwards in anticipation of the sugary delights one can convince company to splurge on at the end of a meal, and in doing so, you are encouraged to do the same. Dessert wines don't behave like red or white wines, instead they are like the 'Champagne of the finale'; rather than arriving, people are leaving, rather than snacking, people are folding their napkins, pushing their cutlery away. And rather than a POP followed by bright fizz and a polite laugh, we seek syrupy goodness, a warming sensation deep within and uproarious merriment. Wines of this magnitude, like the ones listed below, tend to push the boundaries, both socially and with their ability to command your attention and keep it.

Drink full and descend.

SOMETHING

SAKE

Sake is a Japanese style of rice wine. The process of production is incredibly complex compared to that of other alcoholic beverages. It is a masterfully created blend of certain types of rice, grown different ways, mould with different properties and water with desirable characteristics. This is all fermented together to create an end product that can behave like wine; some styles are meant to be drunk whilst young, fresh and zippy, whereas some styles are made to age gracefully, revealing layers of texture and depth. Sake is a traditional drink in Japanese culture and has roots dating back to the 3rd century BC. It is no wonder that the world's inspiration for fresh and raw seafood cuts choose to drink such charismatic and satisfying brews as these.

MARCO DE JEREZ AND THE GRAPE PALOMINO

Marco de Jerez is a gorgeous region of rolling hills inland from the Atlantic coast and north from the bay of Cádiz. Of the nine wine-making villages of the region, it's centered on, and is named for the main town, Jerez de la Frontera. The most famous local wine, 'sherry' also takes its name from Jerez. In most places you can see the Atlantic; you can feel it everywhere. Cool, moist, mythical. The lands glisten and twinkle when the sun catches the dazzling chalky soil.

Palomino is one of the white grapes native to Marco de Jerez, and nowadays by far its dominant cultivar. In the wine styles of Jerez, potentially acid-shy Palomino gets plenty of help in filling the hole where acidity should go. In the great vineyards, with quality viticultural values, Palomino naturally gains structural mouthfeel from the textured, earthy but fresh and highly sensual chalk soils. And then, winemaking adds on complex overlays from the region's techniques of ageing in conjunction with moderated oxidative ingress. Air, time and the interplay of flor yeast give secondary compounds.

2018	Callejuela 'Blanco de Hornillos' A Palomino aged without flor. Delicate herbal tea. The palate is floral-flavour equivalent of marmalade, without any viscous sweetness, finishing lean and dry. Soft, gentle, mineral, and clean.	10	65
NV	Bodegas Luis Perez 'Caberrubia' Fino Saca III Preserved citrus rind, some meal, floral with golden apple skin, marzipan, aldehyde in the form of elderflower gin. It's brightly earthy, deep and soft to smell, and gloriously, endlessly effortless.		140
2018	Primitivo Collantes 'Socaire' Palomino The tastes and textures are concentrated and dried like vegetable chips, glazed with orange caramel scent and herb spice low in the mouth. The palate is beautifully round and centred, leaving space for time and the warmth of one's mouth to fan savoury earthen perfumes, complex and gentle at once.		150
2016	Callejuela Manzanilla de Pago 'Añina' (500ml) Toasted cereal, powdered ginger, almond meal. It's rounded and oloroso-like in style-mineral, soft, yeasty with lushness, finishing gentle and easy.		195
2018	M Antonio de la Riva Palomino de Pasto, Pago Macharnudo Ultra-mineral, ultra-marine, yet umami, linear with great terroir depth and richness.		220

This one is Unique with a capital 'U'. Couche employs a traditional perpetual solera method to bring complexity and a slight richness to this Cuvée. Elegance is, of course, present but it is that touch of oxidisation that makes this stand out. Much like breathing in a fresh produce market there are enticing wafts from all directions: brioche buns, candied apples, fresh white flowers and far, far into the distance (perhaps even the next market over) someone is roasting nuts. Don't let the nose fool you, zero dosage and bone dry.

Few names in the production of Sauvignon Blanc incite such excitement as Cotat. We are pleased to offer two of their heralded vineyards side by side in what will be a journey of true excellence. Extremely limited worldwide due to the 2.5 hectares tended by Pascal and his brother. In 'La Grande Côte' you'll find a gentle lushness with hallmarks of old vines whereas in 'Les Montes Damnés' a true expression of chalky terroir can be seen; both armed to the teeth with their signature focus and laser-like acidity. Intended for ageing (and ageing and ageing) but we can't wait!

CHENIN BLANC

Anyone who has a habit of taking comfort in the expected should be familiar with Chenin Blanc. Drinking Chenin is a trait shown in those with a discerning palate, mostly due to the highest common denominator of worldwide examples: fresh and lingering acidity. Fresh cut green and yellow apples give backbone in cooler years with textural notes of beeswax and crunchy figs. Warmer years give way to a depth and richness unmatched in ginger, lashings of lemon custard and chamomile. With wines crafted to show the best of regionality, this will, time after time, vintage after vintage provide comfort when needed, both with food, and without.

DOMAINE MARC BREDIF

Established in 1893, this domaine is synonymous with the production of Chenin Blanc in Vouvray (Loire Valley). Located in central Touraine on the banks of the River Loire, Marc made name for himself when he took over production from his uncle in 1919. Ethereal, silky, elegant and age worthy, some of the best of his wines drink for well over 50 years in the bottle. Using three levels of classification, the quality and ability for ageing growing exponentially with each, Bredif stands true as a champion of his region and a master of the nuances of Chenin Blanc.

	Perfectly aged Victorian Semillon. Perhaps four words you wouldn't expect to hear in that order but here it is. This wine is stunning and shows off perfectly how the team at Yarra Yering press liquid gold from their vines. It is often blended with Chardonnay but this release indicates how the variety shines solo. Still crisp at 11.5% with notes of Italian lemon soda, pear and sun baked straw. It gently builds and beguiles with symphonic texture.

WHITE BURGUNDY

Situated in east-central France, Burgundy is synonymous with prestige, intensity and a refined sense of terroir. Dominated by limestone soils, Bourgogne (the French spelling) produces some of the finest Chardonnays in the world, and by extension, some of the most sought after. Diversity is key here, with individual areas (known as communes) producing a vast array of flavour, texture and age-worthy wines. From the zippy, light and unoaked styles of Chablis in the north, to the power and precision of the Montrachets, and further south to the Macon, where oak regimes give butterballs and weight, Bourgogne wines are a slow but steady addiction. Once you start, you will want to explore more.

The Carillon family has lived in Puligny Montrachet since the early 1500s, and with that exceptional knowledge of the land, passed down generation to generation, produces some of the most sought after and collected wines. The 2020 vintage was exceptionally dry with some of the lowest yields in contrast with the stunning quality. RED WINE AND FISH

There's always one around, one who doesn't drink white wine. Or perhaps, being in South Australia, you simply prefer a big, bold red; something designed to knock your socks off with bolshy red and black fruits, Christmas cake and vanillin. Here, you are in good hands.

This is a red wine offering based on, yes, our seasonal menu, but also, much more than that. It is an exploration and celebration of some of the world's best, some of the world's most unique and some of the world's unsung beauties. As the provenance of our fresh seafood is of the utmost importance insofar as understanding flavours, seasonal availability and decadence, as is the story behind our wine selections. Drawing from our menu, a menu rooted in cuisine from the globe, we are proud to offer the same philosophy with your beverage experience.

From the cooler Adelaide Hills, our closest local region, through to the mediterranean McLaren Vale and Blewitt Springs down south then north to the Barossa and Eden Valleys, local legends and young blood are championed here. International entries from all the colours of the red varietals rainbow make their mark from the crisp, acid driven reds of Etna through to the grandeur and prestige of Burgundy and Barolo. Varietals of the Iberian Peninsula are reflected both in true representations (Rioja) as well as our own (McLaren Vale, Barossa Valley).

Perhaps the most exciting thing here are the reds that pair so well with seafood dishes. If tradition can convince you, then don't worry, a large portion of the world has been doing it for centuries. If tradition can't convince you, then our advice is simple: you do you, that seems to work best. Never fear the unknown, embrace the adventure and perhaps most importantly, have a bit of fun.

2021	Barratt Wines 'Uley Vineyard'	Adelaide Hills, SA	85
2013	Geoff Weaver	Adelaide Hills, SA	110
This is a sumptuously aged Pinot Noir from the Adelaide Hills. Even with its bottle age, persistent acid and fresh red fruits are present. Most excitingly here we see all expressions of the humble cherry: fresh, red and crisp, through to dark black., soft and brooding almost right through to preserved morello. With this suave (but not-so-fruit bomb) wine there are also distinct notes of age coming through to create balance and integrity. Seriously good wine.

Although it took him 32 years to start his own Domaine (he had been running the famed Comte Armand since his early 20s), it seems that Benjamin Leroux was born to become a winemaker, against all odds, no less. Despite being born to a non winemaking family (something quite strange for a producer of his calibre) Leroux's wines display precision, depth and, above all, quality. Often teetering on the other side of the line between convention and conformity his wines are considered modern classics: his 2017 Vosne-Romanée being no different. It is playful, energetic and simply wonderful.

Quintarelli's wines are known for their poise, power and precision. Their unique style and character underpins all true Valpolicella wines from vine to bottle. What makes this producer, and indeed the region itself, so special is the intensive labour involved in the vinification process. Multiple fermentations, painfully precise harvesting (down to the exact moment of ripeness) and extended ageing in barrel these are true results of love and care. It's big and bold but airy and ethereal at the same time. True craftsmanship.

NEBBIOLO AND BAROLO

2009	Arrivo	Adelaide Hills, SA	105
------	--------	--------------------	-----

These bottles are the culmination of 30 years of research and passion dedicated entirely by one man to Nebbiolo. Peter Godden, a scientist at the Australian Wine Research Institute, is in love with this variety, and rightly so. This wine is fully matured and comes from a cool, higher altitude site in Gumeracha. Tastes like gooey Christmas cake, savoury earthy notes and leather with a dash of perfumed baking spice.

Built by his ancestors over 100 years ago, these fermenters are the very reason his family has such a big name in the McLaren Vale and Blewitt Springs regions. The results are evident, too; fermenting Shiraz grapes in slate vats imparts a gorgeous silvery texture whilst maintaining fruit freshness and slippery tannins.

---	------	---------	--------------	-----

Inspired by the wines of Côte Rôtie the 2020 entry of Gary and Nick Farr's Shiraz is a co-ferment of 4% Viognier. Laden with complexity and richness, imagine sandstone in a pepper grinder lightly shaken over a bowl of fresh black and blue berries. Intensity and poise sit at the fore with satisfying depth. The Viognier in this wine adds a silvery quality and calms the boldness of the Shiraz. One to enjoy and one to sit on and ponder.

	2018	Hutton Vale	Eden Valley, SA	135

Hutton Vale Farm, now being worked by 7th generation custodians Stuart and Cait Angus is by far and wide one of the most mesmerising Cabernet Sauvignons to be produced in the Eden Valley. Nestled in the quiet foothills east of Angaston this is one of the most serene settings in the country to operate a biodynamic farm and produce wine. Now with 8 years of bottle age the wine is coming into its true self. Distinctly Cabernet but with such a strong presence of terroir: eucalypt and pepper berry with rapidly softening tannins all held together by a silvery line of gentle acidity that supports and guides.
